LIGHT HOUSES.

Board of Commissioners for the several Light Houses in the Bay of Fundy.—Robert W. Crookshank, John Ward, Isaac Woodward John James Robinson, R. N., and Donald Clark, Esquires.

Isaac Woodward, Esquire, Surveyor of those Light Houses in the Bay of Fundy belonging to New Brunswick, and also of those belonging to Nova Scotia which are partly supported by this Province.

Cape Sable Seal Island Light.—The first Light in approaching the Bay of Fundy, is on the South Point of the Seal Island. This is a plain white Light, elevated about 80 feet above high water mark, and may be seen in approaching the Island from any point of the compass. A very dangerous rock, under water, but upon which the sea always breaks, called Blonde Rock, lies about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles S. by W. by compass, from the Light House. Between this rock and the Island, there are some dangers—the ground is rocky throughout, and large vessels, therefore, ought not to attempt passing between them.

Brier Island Light.—In advancing up the Bay, the next Light is situated on Brier Island, about half a mile N. E. from the N. W. point thereof. A plain white light

Digby Gut Light.—The next light on the coast of Nova Scotia is placed on the west side of Digby Gut—from Brier Island North Eastward. The coast is very bold and not indented; the Light is therefore chiefly intended as a guide into Digby Basin—A white Light.

Gannet Rock Light.—This Light is intended to warn vessels of their approach to a very dangerous range of shoals and ledges, which extend from the Old Proprietor to the Seal Islands off Machias, a distance of about twenty miles. It is a flash light—white—twenty seconds dark and forty light in each minute. The Light House is painted in stripes, vertical, black and white

Bearings and Distance by Compass from the Gannet Rock Light House. This Light bears from the Light house on Brier Island, N. N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. 22 miles.

From the Gannet Rock to the Old Proprietor E. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. distance 7 miles.
From the Gannet Rock to the Black Rock, off White Head Island, N. E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. 7 miles.

From the Gannet Rock to the South West Head of Grand Manan, N. N. W. $6\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

From the Gannet Rock to the Northernmost of the Murr Ledges, N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

To the Southernmost of ditto, called Saint Mary's Ledge, W S. W. 2 miles.

From the Gannet Rock to Machias Seal Island, W and by N $\frac{1}{2}$ N. 13 miles.

NOTE.—Between the Northernmost and Southernmost of the Murr Ledges, there is a range of dangerous rocks and shoals, many of them always above water, and which extends Westward from the Light House about four miles; from this range, farther Westward, about six miles from the Gannet Light, lies a dangerous breaker called the Bull. This may be avoided by keeping three remarkable headlands near the S. W. end of Grand Manan, open.

From Brier Island Light to the Old Proprietor, N. and by W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. 18 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles

The Blonde Rock from the Southernmost point of the Cape Sable, Seal Islands S. and by W. $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles distant.

Machias Seal Island Lights.—There are two fixed white lights upon the Machias Seal Islands, elevated about forty-five feet above high water, and bear from each other E. S. E. and W. N. W. distant about 200 feet, by which circumstance of two Light Houses at the same station, they will be immediately distinguished from all other lights upon the coast, (British or American) Both the Buildings are painted white. The following are the bearings from them, viz:

To the Southernmost Murr Ledge, (St. Mary's) E. S. E. easterly.

Gannet Rock Light E. by S. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. 13 miles.

Southern Head of Grand Manan, E. by N. $\frac{1}{4}$ N.

Northern Head of Grand Manan. N. E. $\frac{1}{4}$ E.

N. E. Rock, distant 2 miles, N. E. by N.

Little River Head, N. by W.

Libby Island Light House, (American.) N. W. by W.

Vessels standing to the Northward, between these Lights and the Gannet Rock, should tack or haul off the moment they bring these Lights in one, as they will not then be more than three fourths of a mile from the Murr Ledges, if more than five miles to the East of the lights.

It is recommended that the Ship's Compasses should be well compared and adjusted (particularly in new ships), before they leave Partridge Island, as serious errors have frequently occurred from want of attention on this point; and as the variation in the Bay of Fundy is seventeen degrees Westward, or ($1\frac{1}{2}$ points) it will be found by the latest published Admiralty Charts, that the course from Partridge Island down the Bay (South Channel) between the Old Proprietor and N. W. Ledge, is S. W. $\frac{1}{4}$ S., but the course to be steered must depend on the direction of the wind on leaving Partridge Island.]

Head Harbour Light.—Next in order after passing Grand Manan and the plain white Light, (American) on West Quoddy Point, is Head Harbour Light. This is placed on the North East extremity of Campo Bello, and is a guide to vessels entering the main Channel to West Isles, Moose Island, and the inner Bay of Passamaquoddy; it enables vessels also at all times to enter Head Harbour—it is a fixed white light. The building is painted White, with a red cross on it.

Point Le Preau Lights.—Upon this projecting head land two lights are placed, one above the other, in the same house, and distant 28 feet—Both lights can be seen from every point of the compass, where they may be useful—both are fixed and white. The Light House is painted red and white, in stripes of five feet broad each, horizontally.

Partridge Island Light.—This light at the entrance of the River and Harbour of Saint John, having been established upwards of forty years, requires no particular notice, further than that it is a fixed white light, and that the Light House is red and white, in vertical stripes.

Beacon Light.—Within Partridge Island, and upon a Spit or bar which extends about half a mile S. S. E. off Sand Point, and which dries at two-thirds ebb, stands the Beacon Tower. Upon this Tower a light is established, which is eminently useful to the coasting trade of Saint John, and to all other vessels having pilots on board, as it enables them to enter the harbour at all hours of the night. A fixed white light. The House is white and black, in stripes vertically.

Quaco.—A revolving white light is placed on a small rock off Quaco Head, showing twice full and twice dark in a minute. This light can be seen from any quarter where a vessel can approach. The Light House is painted white and red in horizontal stripes.

Cape Enrage Light.—On the point of that name, in Westmorland, nearly opposite Apple River Harbour, N. S. A plain white light. The House is painted white, and is about 120 feet above tide mark.

West Quoddy Light.—This is an American Light, and is placed on the West side of the entrance into the Saint Croix by Lubec and Eastport.

Cape Forchu Light.—On Cape Forchu, on the western side of the entrance to Yarmouth (Nova-Scotia), in lat. 43,39, N. long, 66,8. W. It exhibits a plain revolving light—visible one minute and a quarter, and invisible half a minute. The building is painted white and is elevated 135 feet above the level of the sea.

Grindstone Island Light.—An Octagonal Tower, sixty feet above the level of high water on Grindstone Island, in Chignecto Bay, in Lat. 45° 43' 13" N. Long. 64° 37' 25" W. The Tower is painted white, as is also the Keeper's house, one story, situate about 50 feet to the Eastward of the Tower.

Bearings and distances of several places from the above Light House, as follows: Cape Enrage Light, by compass, S. 61½ W., 10 1-7 miles.

Highest Point of St. Mary's Ledge, by compass, N. 40 W., 6-10 mile.

The point of low water off the Light House, by compass, S. 78 W., 2-10 mile.

Jones' Ledge, N. 10 W., 3-10 mile, it dries at low springs and has about 2 1-2 fathoms on it at half tide.

A Sand Bank, S. 15 W., 6-10 mile, it has 1½ fathoms on its shoalest part at lower water springs.

Grand Manan.—There is a Light House and Keeper's House being erected at the "Swallow Tail" on the North Eastern part of the Island of Grand Manan, in the Bay of Fundy, which will be lighted next season. The Light is 45 feet from Base to Deck; the point on which it stands is 103 feet above high water, making 148 feet elevation. This is a conspicuous mark in the South Channel between Brier Island and Grand Manan. Both Houses are painted White.

Nature! great parent! whose unceasing hand
Rolls round the seasons of the changeful year,
How mighty, how majestic are thy works!
With what a pleasing dread they swell the soul!
That sees astonished! and astonished sings!
Ye too, ye winds! that now begin to blow,
With boisterous sweep, I raise my voice to you:
Where are your stores, ye powerful beings! say,
Where are your aerial magazines reserv'd,
To swell the brooding terrors of the storm.

FEBRUARY.

No music warbles through the grove,
 No vivid colors paint the plain;
 No more with devious steps I rove
 Through verdant paths, now sought in vain,
 Aloud the driving tempest roars,
 Congealed impetuous showers descend;
 Haste, close the window, bar the doors;
 Fate leaves me Stella and a friend.
 In nature's aid let art supply
 With light and heat our little sphere;
 Rouse, rouse the fire, and pile it high,
 Light up a constellation here.

O many a voice is thine, thou Wind ! full many a voice is thine !
 From ev'ry scene thy wing o'ersweeps thou bear'st a sound and sign;
 A minstrel wild and strong thou art, with a mastery all thine own,
 And the spirit is thy harp, O Wind ! that gives the answering tone.
 Thou hast been across red fields of war, where shivered hemlets lie,
 And thou bringest thence the thrilling note of a clarion in the sky;
 A rustling of proud banner folds, a peal of stormy drums—
 All these are in thy music met, as when a leader comes.
 Thou hast been o'er solitary seas, and from their wastes bro't back
 Each noise of waters that awoke in the mystery of thy track—
 The chime of low, soft southern waves, on some green palmy shore,
 The hollow roll of distant surge, the gathered billows' roar.

I come! I come! ye have called me long—
 I come o'er the mountains with light and song!
 Ye may trace my step o'er the wakening earth
 By the winds which tell of the violet's birth,
 By the primrose stars in the shadowy grass,
 By the green leaves opening as I pass.
 I have breathed on the South, and the chestnut flowers,
 By thousands have burst from the forest bowers,
 And the ancient graves and the fallen fanes
 Are veiled with wreaths on the Italian plains;
 But it is not for me, in my hour of bloom,
 To speak of the ruin or the tomb.

Then the dark pine-wood's boughs are seen
Fringed tenderly with living green ;
And roses, in their brightest dyes,
By Lapland's founts and lakes arise.
For He, whose word is truth, hath said,
His power to life shall wake the dead,
And summon those He loves on high,
To " put on immortality."
Then, all its transient sufferings o'er,
On wings of light the soul shall soar,
Exulting, to that blest abode
Where tears of sorrow never flowed.

Thou art no lingerer in monarch's hall—
 A joy thou art, and a wealth to all!
 A bearer of hope unto land and sea—
 Sunbeam! what gift hath the world like thee?
 Thou art walking the billows, and Ocean smiles;
 Thou hast touched with glory his thousand isles;
 Thou hast lit up the ships and the feathery foam,
 And gladdened the sailor like words from home.
 To the solemn depths of the forest shades,
 Thou art streaming on through their green arcades;
 And the quivering leaves that have caught thy glow
 Like fire-flies glance to the pools below.

The Wind, the wandering Wind
 Of the golden Summer eves—
 Whence is the thrilling magic
 Of its tones among the leaves?
 O, is it from the waters,
 Or from the long tall grass?
 Or is it from the hollow rocks
 Through which its breathings pass?
 Or is it from the voices
 Of all in one combined,
 That it wins the tone of mastery?
 The Wind, the wandering Wind?

No, no! the strange, sweet accents
 That with it come and go,
 They are not from the osiers,
 Nor the fir trees whispering low.
 They are not of the waters,
 Nor of the caverned hill;
 'Tis the human love within us
 That gives them power to thrill.
 They touch the links of memory
 Around our spirits twined,
 And we start, and weep, and tremble
 To the Wind, the wandering Wind!

Flowers will fade though love may rear them,
 Leaves though born of Spring will fall;
 Wintry winds will blight and sear them,
 Tempests wildly strew them all!
 Day, though calmly, brightly shining—
 Day, the glorious, will not last;
 Sunlight from the sky declining,
 But though flowers and leaves may wither
 From the dark earth's fading bowers,
 Time again will bring them hither:
 Spring-time leaves and summer flowers.

Ye living germs of cold and fragrant fire!
 Die ye for ever, when ye die, ye flowers?
 Take ye, when in your beauty, ye expire,
 An everla-ting farewell of your bowers?
 Have I not seen thee, wild rose, in my dreams,
 Like a pure spirit—beauteous as the skies
 When the deep blue is brightest and the streams
 Dance down the hills, reflecting the rich dyes
 Of morning clouds, and cistus woodbine—twined—
 Didst thou not wake me from a dream of death?
 Yea, and thy voice was sweeter than the wind
 When it inhales the love sick violet's breath.

NOVEMBER.

1800

The wintry months are heré again—
 Around us are their snows and storms;
 The tempest shrieks along the plain,
 The forest heaves its giant forms.
 The drifting sleet flies from the hill,
 Thick clouds deform the threat'ning sky;
 While in the vale the birds are still,
 And chain'd by frosts the waters lie.
 Ah! where is now the merry May,
 The green banks, and the leafy bowers?
 The cricket's chirp, the linnet's lay,
 That gave such sweetness to the hours?

When thy parting smile, bright Autumn grew dim,
 Mute was the wood-bird's sweet vesper hymn.
 Mournful and sad was thy farewell tone,
 As lingering it swept through the forest lone!
 Wide was its music upon the hill side,
 Faint down the vale the last echo died.
 But look! A trim barque is nearing the land—
 Children dance merrily on the smooth sand.
 With a smile on her lip the mother stands by,
 The tear drops of joy glistening bright in her eye—
 O dearest to her is winter's bleak gale,
 For it homewards wafts her husband's white sail.

AGRICULTURAL.

REFUSE OF TANNERIES AS MANURE.—At a late meeting of the Farmer's Club of Little Falls, the subject of using the refuse of tanneries, hair, fleshings, lime, &c., for agricultural purposes was discussed, and one member said he had used hair on grain, and grass with the most marked effect. He had spread it thinly and harrowed in with spring wheat, and produced the best crop he had ever raised, or seen in the neighborhood. Upon grass its effects had been very distinct and lasting. Applied upon the top of an unproductive dry ridge of land, it had produced a very luxuriant growth, and without any other application, the dark green complexion of the sward had scarcely abated since 1847. On corn its application had not been so successful. It might have been owing to the manner of applying.

SORREL.—Sorrel hay should be cut the first of the season, and if you have any pieces of grass in which considerable sorrel is found, be sure and put your scythe into it at the first of your haying. There are several reasons for this: sorrel furnishes a great amount of seed, and if cut before it is perfectly ripe, the seed will be saved from the ground, and add value to the fodder. By cutting it early, its value is almost nearly doubled, and if properly cured, makes one of the best and most palatable fodders for sheep, of anything which your farm affords in the shape of hay. Do not neglect this until it is dead ripe, when the seed will be scattered on the ground, and the stalks make but poor food for stock.

SOWING GRAIN.—With your permission I will give you my way of sowing grain, which I think has some advantages over the ordinary way. I sow grain all one way—that is, walk across the field and cast my grain with my right hand—then moving my stake three or four paces, walk back and cast my grain with my left hand. This may not seem to be so easily done, but let any one take a bushel of grain, and go on to the barn floor and cast the grain with his left hand, and he will see that the thing is easily learned. I sow all my grain in this way, and generally get it on very even. Some of the advantages are as follows—the labor is not all performed with one hand. Grain can be sowed more even. It is desirable to sow grain with the wind.—W.—Allegany Co., N. Y.

CHEESE MAKING.—Set the milk at 90 degrees, in spring and fall, and 86 in hot weather. Heat up three times—first 90 degrees, then 95 degrees, and last 100 degrees. About one tea-cupful of salt to 16 pounds curd. Use much care in breaking up and working the curd; cutting at first with a dairy knife of four blades, and using the knife with one hand during the whole operation, taking particular care not to squeeze the curd in any way, but pass one hand under, and lifting gently, and letting it fall off the hand and between the fingers, and with the other keep the knife in motion in the curd, cutting it as fine as possible by the time it is ready for salting.

Thought and care are essential in all the various operations. Intense interest and anxiety are necessary in order to do all these things well, for they influence the texture, flavor, and quality of the cheese.

ANOTHER.—First scald the tub, then strain the milk into, it soon as brought from milking. Next put in sufficient rennet, (the quantity depending upon the quality) to fetch the milk to a curd, in from forty to sixty minutes. The curd is then dipped carefully into the basket for draining, until the next morning. The mornings' milk is prepared in the same manner, (after the thorough scalding of the tub.) The curd, when formed, is dipped in with that of the previous evening; then left to drain, with an occasional stirring with a knife or slice, (a knife is preferable, as it is not so likely to injure the curd.) When sufficiently drained, which it will be by nine or ten o'clock if properly attended to, tie together the ends of the cloth, and hang in the cellar until the succeeding day, when the curd of that day is prepared in the manner of the previous day's curd. It is now ready for scalding. Pour boiling hot water, at the rate of one gallon for 10 lbs. of curd, into the tub; next slice in the curd from the basket. (handling it carefully, so as not to disturb the "white whey.") The curd is next brought from the cellar and sliced in the same manner. It is put in lastly, for being older it does not require as much scalding as the newer curd. Let it stand from five to ten minutes, from the time the last slice is dropped in; then dip back into the basket, curd and water together, to drain. Check and stir it up with the knife, four or five times, when it is ready for grinding. The mill is placed upon the "cheese tongs" over the tub; the curd is then sliced into the mill and ground, when it is ready for the seasoning, which consists of a common sized teacupful of rock salt, and one teaspoonful of salt petre, for every twenty pounds of curd. It is thoroughly mixed, (not squeezed) with the hands. It is then ready for pressing, which is done gently until night, when the cheese is turned, cloth changed, and put back to pressing with sufficient weight, where it remains until the next cheese is ready for the press.

RENNET.—The stomach of the calf should be taken when empty, (no curd in it)—care taken not to get dirt on it—and without rinsing or washing, and salted inside and out, with one teacupful of salt to a rennet, and placed in an earthen dish. It should lay in the salt two days, then be stretched upon a stick in the form of a hoop to dry. When dried, take it off the stick, and place it in a tight sack for use. Those prepared one season are not to be used till the next.

To soak the rennet, take an earthen vessel; put three in it; then take two gallons of water, put one quart of salt in it; boil and skim, and cool till milkwarm. Then pour it upon them, and in one week it will be fit for use. One teacupful of the liquor will curdle the milk of two milkings from fifteen cows, fit to break up in forty minutes.

WASTEFUL FARMERS.—Perhaps in nothing are farmers more wasteful than in the management, or rather want of management of their manure. Should one have his granary robbed every week or so of fifteen or twenty dollars worth of grain, he would make a great fuss about it, and probably offer a liberal reward for the detection of the thief; yet this same man will allow his manure to lie spread over his cattle yard, exposed to the bleaching rains of spring which frequently carry more than the above amount of the elements of crops contained in his manure, forever beyond his reach—and he allows this waste to occur year after year, as if it was no sort of consequence to him. Farmers have been told this thing so often through our agricultural press, that one would think it need no longer be reiterated. Why is this? Has the subject become to them such a hackneyed one that they no longer give attention to it, or do they mostly belong to the class who take no paper devoted to the interest of their calling? The voice of the agricultural press has for half a century or more been raised against this waste of manure, as well as against the skinning process of cultivation so universally practised in many parts of our country. Their empty barns and granaries should appeal to them in a way not to be misunderstood! Their fields, so barren looking, all overrun with sorrel, should reprove them for such dereliction of a duty they owe to their children and their country, as well as to themselves! But farmers waste also in the application of manure—putting it on ground which needs draining, when half the value of the manure expended in draining would produce almost infinitely better results. Again, they will lavish it on to fields already rich, while they have others suffering for want of it. But it seems impossible almost to change the course of many, however prejudicial to their interests that course may be.

ROOT CROPS IN ENGLAND.—The London Farmers' Magazine, states that 40 tons of swedes per acre, all cleaned and topped have been grown, each turnip being allowed a space of 28 by 10 inches, thus taking up 280 square inches of ground. If planted regularly, this would give 22,402 turnips, which at 4 lbs. each, would amount to 40 tons 8 lbs. per acre. It further states that a market gardener at Fulham, grew 64 tons of mangold wurtzels per acre, on a wager of twenty-five dollars, which the gardener won. They were planted each in a space measuring two feet by one foot; each root taking up 288 square inches. There would thus be 21,780 plants upon an acre; and each one must have averaged a little over 6 lbs. 9 oz. to produce the 64 tons. The land on which this enormous crop was grown, is yearly dressed with the strongest horse manure that can be obtained—that principally made from corn. This shows what high cultivation will do for the root crop.

TO CURE BUTTER.—Take two parts of the best common salt, one part of sugar, and one part of salt-petre; beat them up and blend the whole together. Take one ounce of this composition for every sixteen ounces of butter, work it well into the mass, and close it up for use.

Butter cured this way, appears of a rich marrowy consistence and fine colour, and never acquires a brittle hardness, nor taste salt. It will likewise keep good three years, only observing, that it must stand three weeks or a month, before it is used.

TO REMOVE THE TURNIP FLAVOUR FROM MILK AND BUTTER.—Dissolve a little nitre in spring water, which keep in a bottle, and put a small tea-cupful into eight gallons of milk, when warm from the cow.

THE WIRE WORM.—Manure is well known to good farmers as one of the best remedies for the evils of the wire worm, to say nothing of its other good qualities; and some farmers adopt the following mode of applying it. The land for spring crops is plowed very late in autumn, the later the better, so that the cold may effectually chill them; and during winter manure is applied to the land, with three or four bushels of salt, and if practicable twenty or thirty bushels of ashes. The two latter may be applied early in spring; and if the manure is made into compost with turf, loam and sand, the previous autumn, with the salt and ashes added at that time, and the compost applied early the following spring, it will succeed well.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A RIDE ON THE STEAM PLOUGH.—By the permission of the inventor I stepped upon the engine, and stood by his side, as the shrill whistle gave the signal to start. The gang of eight fourteen inch prairie ploughs, which until now had hung by chains to cranes at the rear of the machine, were quickly lowered until they rested on the hard sod. One movement of the lever, and onward we went up an ascent of about seven degrees, and with a smooth, uniform motion. As the eight shares entered the soil, I apprehended a sudden check and strain, like that felt when a railroad train is partially "braked up," but nothing of the kind was experienced. In the enormous driving wheel or rather drum, beneath my feet, I could not detect the least sliding on the sod. The traction was perfect.

Before us the beautiful green turf swept under the bow of our gallant craft. Behind us lay a wide deep brown wake, in which scarce a tinge of green was visible. Under the stern the eight broad waves of sods lifted their crests, and rolled over like surges falling upon the beach. "Steady she goes," as our helmsman with hand upon the tiller, and eye upon the guide-wheels, keeps on his strait course. But we near the edge of our field. Two shrieks of the whistle, and up rise the plows. Starboard your helm! Round sweeps our craft as easily and gracefully as a bird on the wing, and we come again into line. Another whistle, the plows are lowered, and in less time than that required to follow this sentence, she is off! A flush of triumphant pleasure mantles the face of the inventor. The grade slightly descends. The crowd which has toiled after us up the ascent quicken their pace. Still we are leaving them. Now only the foremost—then the whole party break into a run, and shouts, like those which followed the triumphal car of a Roman conqueror, rend the air.

Many were the warm grasps of congratulation which greeted the American conqueror as he stepped from his car of triumph, and in modest terms proposed to subject the machine to any test which the committees might suggest. "Can you cross-plow the land you have just turned over?" "Yes sir," was his prompt reply, and wheeling his machine into position, he crossed at right angles the furrows previously thrown up. Subsequently gulleys were passed over, abrupt elevations surmounted, and finally the plows were detached and an omnibus hitched to the engine. "Here we are now, right off," cried a facetious passenger, and right off we were, going over the trotting course at a good round pace.

Feelings of intense gratification appeared to animate the entire assembly, and I left the grounds with emotions of thankfulness to that great and good Being, who in our own day had enabled a fellow countryman to make the giant steam tributary to the art of cultivation, and the means of untold blessings to millions.—Philadelphia, July 21, 1855.

STEWART HOLLAND, of the ill-fated Arctic, sent a thrill of admiration through the civilized world, because, unawed by the disasters about him, he continued to fire the signal-gun of distress until engulfed in the unsatisfied grave of the sea. Who still remembers the noble Richard Mann, who, upon the burning steamer Griffith, was asked if he would remain at the wheel and his stern answer was heard above the increasing tumult—"I will." And nobly did he redeem his promise; amidst sheeted fire he directed the burning boat to the shore, and as she struck, and thus announced to hundreds of shrieking women and children and appalled men that they were saved, the form of Richard Mann was seen for the last time as he sank into the fiery vortex below him—he perished nobly at his post! Yet Holland and Mann, as hundreds of kindred spirits, came up out of the class known as intelligent hard-working men. Noble spirits, who, without the advantages which should result from refinement and wealth, are still nature's noblest works. They are the kind of men who, in all ages, have performed the valorous self-sacrificing deeds of history, but yet are rarely remembered.

THE SUNNY SIDE.—Dr. Johnston used to say that a habit of looking at the best side of every event is far better than a thousand pounds a year. Bishop Hall quaintly remarks, "For every bad there might be a worse, and when one breaks his leg let him be thankful it was not his neck!" When Fenelon's library was on fire, "God be praised," he exclaimed, "that it is not the dwelling of some poor man!" This is the true spirit of submission—one of the most beautiful traits that can possess the human heart.

OLD FASHIONED FLOWERS.—In the rage of "new things," many old flowers have been discovered, which are, in fact more beautiful and worthy of cultivation than those which have supplanted them. How rarely will you find, now-a-days, the Four O'clock, Hollyhock, Marygolds, Balsams and Sweet Sultans? Yet all of these are handsome plants, and well deserving a place in every flower border. Many persons who still cultivate them are somewhat ashamed of their old fashioned tastes, and when showing off the treasures of their gardens, pass by these antiquated flowers with an apology for this "old stuff."

Of the Hollyhock and Balsams particularly, there are now many very beautiful varieties to be obtained of the seedsmen. Do not be in two great haste to give up the old favorites of the flower garden until you are certain you have something to replace them, with a stronger recommendation than a long and unpronounceable Latin name.

SUCCESS IN LIFE, BY OLIVER OPTIC.—The true success in life is the attainment of a pure and exalted character; and he who at threescore and ten has won nothing but wealth and a name, has failed to achieve the noblest purpose of his being. Wealth is success; a true life is a far nobler success. He who has won both has been doubly successful; but he who has become rich by neglecting the mind, the heart and the soul, has sacrificed the greater good to the less.

LORENZO Dow is still remembered by some of the "old fogies" as one of the most eccentric men that ever lived. On one occasion he took the liberty, while preaching, to denounce a rich man in the community, recently deceased. The result was an arrest, a trial for slander, and an imprisonment in the county jail. After Lorenzo got out of "limbo," he announced that, in spite of his (in his opinion) unjust punishment, he should preach, at a given time, a sermon about "another rich man." The populace was greatly excited, and a crowded house greeted his appearance. With great solemnity he opened the Bible, and read, "And there was a rich man who died and went to—;" then stopping short, and seeming to be suddenly impressed, he continued: "Brethren, I shall not mention the place this rich man went to, for fear he has some relatives in this congregation who will sue me for defamation of character." The effect on the assembled multitude was irresistible, and he made the impression permanent by taking another text, and never alluding to the subject again.

HERE follows a retort, although it can hardly be called a "retort courteous:"

A mathematician being asked by a stout fellow,

"If two pigs weigh twenty pounds, how much will a large hog weigh?"

"Jump into the scales," was the reply, "and I'll tell you in a minute!"

The mathematician "had him there!"

FORGOT HIMSELF.—A Quaker and a hot-headed youth had disagreed. The broad-brimmed friend kept his temper most equably, which seemed but to increase the anger of the other. "Fellow," said the latter, "I don't know a bigger fool than you are," finishing the sentence with an oath. "Stop, friend," replied the Quaker, "thou forgettest thyself."

THERE is a moral—and "the times give it proof"—in the ensuing quattrin; but how about the grammar of the same? It seems to "knock" old Priscian, and yet it has found defenders:

"Thus when two dogs are fighting in the streets,
A third dog one of these two dogs meets;
With angry teeth he bites him to the bone,
And this 'ere dog suffers for what that 'are dog's done."

THE poor tailor in the following limning from a New Orleans journal some ten or fifteen years ago, seems to have fared no better on one horn of a dilemma than on another:

"Will you pay me this bill, Sir?" said a tailor in Charles Street, to a waggish debtor.

"Do you owe anybody anything?" asked the wag.

"No Sir," replied the tailor.

"Then you can afford to wait!" and off he walked.

A day or two afterward the tailor called again. Our wag was not "at his wit's end," so, turning to his creditor, he said:

"Are you in debt to any body?"

"Yes, Sir, I am sorry to say I am."

"Well, why don't you pay?"

"I have'nt got the money," replied the tailor, with a woe-begone countenance.

"That's just my case, my dear Sir! I am glad to perceive that you can appreciate my position. I always respected your judgment, Sir. Give us your hand, Sir!"

Not altogether unlike a case recorded of San Francisco, in the opening year of the golden harvest:

An unsuccessful adventurer in the auriferous region, having staid for a long time at an expensive hotel in the city without having paid a "red cent" for board, although his bill had often been presented by the landlord, was one day waited upon by that personage, with a very determined aspect, when the following conversation ensued:

LANDLORD, "I have brought you your bill again this morning Mr. —, and I want the money. I have sent it to you by the book-keeper several times before, but you have paid no attention whatever to it. Now, what I wish to say is, that I shall wait no longer. For every thing that I buy, I am obliged to pay, and pay, too, in cash down. Everything is at a high figure, and I can't afford to keep a hotel in San Francisco, unless I collect all my bills."

"Can't af-ford it!" exclaimed the delinquent boarder; "then why in thunder don't you sell out to somebody that can afford it? That's the best thing you can do!"

"NEVER put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day," said an advising mother to her child. "Well, then, mamma, let us eat the cranberry pie that's in the safe," was the child's precocious reply.

A teacher, wishing to explain to a little girl the manner in which a lobster casts his shell when he has outgrown it, said "What do you do when you have outgrown your clothes! You throw them aside, don't you?" "Oh no!" replied the little one, "we let out the tucks!"

PADDY'S BOOTS.—A green sprig from the emerald isle, entered a boot and shoe shop to purchase himself a pair of brogans. After overhauling his stock-in-trade without being able to suit his customer, the shopkeeper hinted that he would make him a pair to order. 'An what'll yer ax to make a good pair of em? was the query. The price was named: the Irishman demurred, but after a 'batin' down' the thing was a trade. Paddy was about leaving when the other called after him, asking, 'But what size shall I make them, sir?' 'Och,' cried Pat promptly, 'I don't mind about the size, at all—make 'em as large as you convaniently can for the money.'

'Wife,' said a tyrannical husband to his much abused consort, 'I wish you to make me a pair of false bosoms, 'I should think,' replied she, 'that one bosom, as false as yours is, would be sufficient.' Exit husband in a brown study.

A QUEER MISTAKE.—An ignorant fellow who was about to get married, resolved to make himself perfect in the responses of the marriage service; but, by mistake, he committed the office of baptism for those of riper years; so, when the clergyman asked him, in the church, "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" the bridegroom answered in a very solemn tone, "I renounce them all." The astonished minister said, "I think thou art a fool!" to which he replied, "All this I steadily believe."

An officer in the United States Army, by the name of Broom, having been advanced to a captaincy, naturally enough liked to hear himself addressed as Captain Broom. One of his friends, however, persisted in calling him plain Broom, and one day, having done so for the fortieth time, Broom said: "You will remember, sir, that I have a handle to my name." "Ah," said his tormentor, "so you have, well Broom-handle, how are you?"

The New York Independent has the following from a mother: "But did I tell you what a time I had with my little Joe?" "No, what was it?" "Why, I was showing him the picture of the martyrs thrown to the lions, and was talking very solemnly to him, trying to make him feel what a terrible thing it was.—'Ma!' said he, all at once, 'O, ma! just look at that poor little lion, away behind there, he won't get any!'"

A punster says, "My name is Somerset. I am a miserable bachelor. I cannot marry; for how could I hope to prevail on any young lady, possessed of the slightest notions of delicacy, to turn a Somerset?"

A GOOD ANSWER.—Bishop Wilberforce, as we are told by a late English paper, was once rebuking one of his clergy for fox hunting.

"My lord," was the clergyman's answer, "every man must have some relaxation. I assure you, I never go to balls."

"Oh!" said the bishop, "I perceive you allude to my having been to the Duchess of Sutherland's party; but I give you my word I never was in the same room with the dancers."

"My lord," responded the clergyman, "my horse and I are getting old, and are never in the same field with the hounds."

GO MARRY.—The most beautiful flowers are those which are double; such as double pinks, double roses and double dahlias. What an argument is this against the chilling deformity of single blessedness! "Go marry!" is written on everything beautiful that the eye rests upon beginning with the birds of paradise, and ending with apple blossoms.

THE USE OF FIRE-ARMS.—The following instructions, given by a parent, to be strictly observed by his son, as conditions of allowing him to use a gun, if practised upon, would save many a life. 1. Never overload the gun. 2. Never load it with the cap on the nipple. 3. Always ram the charge home. 4. Never point your gun, whether loaded or unloaded, at any one, or in such a manner as if loaded and discharged it would do any harm. 5. Do not cap your gun, or cock it, till ready to discharge it. 6. When firing with others always have them range in the rear of you. 7. In carrying your gun, let the muzzle always point in the air, or toward the ground.

CREAM BEER.—Two ounces Tartaric Acid. Two pounds white sugar. The juice of half a lemon. Three pints of water. Boil together five minutes. When nearly cold, add the whites of three eggs well beaten, with half a cup of flour, and half an ounce of essence of wintergreen. Bottle, and keep in a cool place. Take two tablespoonfuls of this syrup for a tumbler of water, and add one-quarter of a teaspoonful of soda. This is an effervescing drink, but far pleasanter than soda water inasmuch as you do not have to drink for your life, in order to get your money's worth. The effervescence is much more slow.

GREASE SPOTS.—The following method of removing grease and oil spots from silk and other articles, without injury to the colours, is given in the Journal des Connaissances Usuelles:—Take the yoke of an egg and put a little of it on the spot, then place over it a piece of white linen, and wet it with boiling water; rub the linen with the hand and repeat the process three or four times, at each time applying fresh boiling water: the linen is then to be removed, and the part thus treated is to be washed with clean cold water.

A TABLE For Foretelling the Weather through all the Lunations of each Year forever.

FORMED BY DR. HERSCHELL, AND REVISED BY DR. ADAM CLARKE.

This table and the accompanying remarks are the result of many years actual observation, the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the sun and moon, in their several positions respecting the earth, and will by simple inspection shew the observer what kind of weather will most probably follow the entrance of the moon into any of its quarters, and that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail

If the new moon, the first quarter, the full moon, or the last quarter, happens	IN SUMMER.	IN WINTER.
Between midnight and 2 in the morning,	Fair.	Hard frost unless the wind, s. or w.
2 and 4 morning,	Cold and showery	Snowy and stormy.
4 and 6, "	Rain.	Rain.
6 and 8, "	Wind and Rain.	Stormy.
8 and 10, "	Changeable.	Cold Rain, if the wind be w ; snow if n.
10 and 12, "	Frequent showers.	Cold, and high wind.
At 12 noon, and 2 p. m.	Very rainy.	Snow or rain.
Between 2 and 4 p. m.	Changeable.	Fair and mild.
4 and 6, evening.	Fair.	Fair.
6 and 8, "	Fair. if wind n. w.	Fair and frosty, if wind is n. or n. e.
8 and 10, "	Rainy, if s. or s. w.	Rain or snow, if s. or s. w.
10 and midnight,	Ditto.	Ditto.
	Fair.	Fair and frosty.

Observations.—1. The nearer the time of the moon's change, first quarter, full and last quarter, are to midnight, the fairer will be the weather during the seven days following.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to midday or noon, the phases of the moon happen, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to the summer, though they affect spring and autumn nearly in the same ratio.

5. The moon's change, first quarter, full and last quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i. e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather ; but this is mostly dependent on the wind, as is noted in the table.

6. Though the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of autumn, the whole of winter, and the beginning of spring, yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

7. To prognosticate correctly, especially in those cases where the wind is concerned, the observer should be in sight of a good vane, where the four cardinal points of the heavens are correctly placed.

ALL THE GOLD IN THE WORLD.—Taking the cubic yard of gold at £2,000,000, which it is in round numbers, all the gold in the world at this estimate might, if melted into ingots, be contained in a cellar twenty-four feet square and sixteen feet high. All our boasted wealth already obtained from California and Australia would go into an iron safe nine feet square and nine feet high. So small is the cube of yellow metal that has set populations on the march, and roused the world to wonder.

TRUTH.—There is nothing says Plato, so delightful as the hearing or the speaking of truth. For this reason, there is no conversation so agreeable as that of the men of integrity, who hear without any intention to betray, and speak without any intention to deceive.
